

basically, each "feature" has it's own object.

This allows for scalability and extendability as this structure limits inheritance.